

Bariloche

Restaurant Guide

WELCOME TO BEAUTIFUL BARILOCHE!

Bariloche is Argentina's gateway to awe-inspiring Patagonia. It is a majestic, enchanting land; rich in amazing forests, incredible views and impressive outdoor excursions. But beyond the stunning beauty and flourishing national parks, Bariloche is a city filled with culture, gourmet dining and first-class appeal.

Bariloche is considered to be one of Argentina's favored gourmet dining cities, Buenos Aires being the other. But there is a big difference between the two metropolises – Bariloche's tastiest eateries are camouflaged, operating behind an inconspicuous door, oftentimes without any advertising.

And thus the reason for the conception of this book.

This handy guide was created to help reduce the time-intensive search for fabulous eating and drinking options. We have only included the restaurants we believe are worthy and would return to. It is a completely non-biased guide, written with no obligation, owner's knowledge or relationship to the restaurants listed. Think of it as a little inside knowledge from one friend to another.

Each section is broken down into types of cuisines and then listed by location, moving from city center out towards Llao Llao. The rating system is based on an easy-to-follow five-star system: five stars being the best, one being the worst.

If the restaurant has a website, we have included it, just click on the name.

May your dining experiences equal the amazing nature of Bariloche.

¡ Buen Provecho!

Breweries

Bariloche is the microbrew capital of Argentina. Although there are a few breweries in the surrounding areas of El Bolsón and Villa La Angostura, Bariloche has the largest concentration. There are new brands popping up all the time. All of the breweries offer food to complement their vast beer selection. Most cervecerías offer a sampler of small glasses, giving you a taste of each type of their beer. Saludos!

Antares

3.5 stars ambiance, 3 stars food, 4 stars beer

Location: Elflein 47, Bariloche center

Telephone: 431 454

www.cervezaantares.com

Hours: 1 p.m. to 3 or 4 a.m. (until there are no more people)

The Antares brewery, hailing from Buenos Aires, considers itself to be the most famous microbrew in Argentina. The modern bar is a popular tourist hangout due to its central location. They have live music on Thursdays and DJ Antares on the weekends. They also offer Wi-Fi and happy hour from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. They have eight styles of beer including Kolsch, Scotch and Porter, as well as their specialties Imperial Stout, Honey Beer, Cream Stout and Barley Wine.

Cerveza Artesanal La Cruz

2 stars ambiance, 3 stars food, 4.5 stars beer

Location: Nilpi 789, between Bustillo and Pioneros at KM 6.1

Telephone: 525 065

www.cervezalacruz.com.ar

Hours: from 6 p.m. on...

This is a small, cozy, local's bar that offers some food as well. It is known to become especially crowded during après ski hour. Their varieties of beers change but include the usual pale, red and dark ale.
